Salford Labour Council freezes council tax for 6th year running

Our NHS is on a knife edge. Five years of Tory led rule have resulted in our NHS being stripped back to the very bone in the name of profit and privatisation. The most cherished and respected health service in the world is being taken from us quietly, piece by piece, service by service so that it is too late before we realise what is really going on.

It's clear from recent reports of struggling A & E departments that savage cuts and privatisation of NHS services are being felt and it is predicted to get dramatically worse as time goes on unless something is done quickly.

Labour created the NHS and we are going to fight for it. Our 10-year plan for the NHS is a blueprint to raise standards of care and ensure the health service is sustainable in the 21st century.

We will:

- invest an extra £2.5 billion for more nurses, doctors, care workers and midwives
- guarantee that you will not have to wait more than a week for a cancer test or 48 hours for a GP appointment,
- repeal David Cameron's NHS changes that put private profit before patient care.
- integrate services from home to hospital
- end 15-minute care slots through new year-of-care budgets, incentivising providers to improve social care and prevent vulnerable patients falling ill or injuring themselves.

- create a new arm of the NHS: 5,000 homecare workers within the NHS to help those with the greatest needs, including the terminally ill so they can stay with their family at the end of life, and those who are leaving hospital who need extra help if they are to move back into their homes.

Please don't leave it too late to fight for the NHS - vote Labour on 7th May

Rebecca Long Bailey – Labour's parliamentary candidate for Salford and Eccles

An NHS with time to care

David Cameron promised that under the Tories there would be no topdown NHS reorganisation. He broke that promise. They have wasted £3 billion on an upheaval which puts profits before co-operation and patient care, and ties hospitals up in competition law.

This wasteful and chaotic reorganisation is having a knock-on effect on the thing that matters most: patient care. Waiting lists, already rising, look set to be pushed up even further as budgets are squeezed and more hospitals fall into deficit. There is a crisis in A&E, not just in winter but all year round. Vital treatments are being rationed, giving patients the choice of waiting longer or paying to go private. Millions of people can't get a GP appointment when they need one.

Keeping Pendlebury & Clifton Clean

Councillor John Ferguson was out recently with staff and tenants from City West Housing. They spent a morning doing a clean up around Clifton Green and the Coronation Street areas.

Councillor Ferguson said "In this time of austerity and government cuts it's important that we all work to keep our local environment clean and free from litter".

State of the Roads

It's that time of year when potholes in our roads are at their worst.

It's a fact of life. Water gets into minute cracks, the water freezes and expands, and the consequence is a damaged road surface.

But the good news is that Salford Council is tackling the problem.

In December 38 potholes were repaired. 8 of the major ones were rectified within 2 hours and the remainder within 28 days of being reported.

In January a further 92 potholes were attended to - 13 within two hours of being reported.

Additionally, resurfacing work has been carried out Bolton Road, Agecroft Road and Manchester Road.

Pendlebury councillor John Ferguson stressed the importance of keeping our roads up to standard and urges residents to report defects that they see. They can do this by either calling the council on 0161 794 4711 or through their local councillor.

Under the Coalition Government, our NHS is facing unprecedented demand. We've seen changes to the way that hospitals are paid for A&E activity, a national shortage of clinical staff and a shortage of GP's. One in four people don't get to see a GP within a week, waiting lists are at their highest for six years, more than half of nurses say their ward is dangerously understaffed and community services are in crisis because not enough staff are being trained and recruited.

Rebecca Long Bailey said 'We've seen that when services are being stretched to capacity, it really doesn't take very much to have an impact and cause difficulties and several hospitals across the country have declared major incidents as they've been unable to deal with the demand on their services. Your Labour run council have been working really hard with our partners to manage these challenges in Salford and generally, we have been in a better position than many other places because of the joint work across our partners.

The support for our We love the NHS campaign day was overwhelming, with many people stopping to ask for a leaflet and to tell us how worried they are that the NHS is going backwards under the Tories. We know just how important the NHS is to people and are working hard to save it.'

Rebecca said 'If Labour win the general election, we will create an NHS Time to Care Fund of £2.5 billion a year to train, recruit and pay new NHS staff - 20,000 more nurses, 8,000 more GPs, 5000 new homecare workers and 3,000 midwives. We will raise the money by clamping down on tax avoidance schemes, raising tax on high value properties worth more than £2 million and introducing fees on tobacco companies so that they make a larger contribution towards the costs of tackling tobacco related illness. Only Labour has a plan to save and transform our NHS because it requires making choices based on the right values, by asking those at the top to pay more and ensuring hedge funds and tax avoiders play by the rules.'

Salford and Bolton Quality Bus Corridor

Transport for Greater Manchester (TfGM) are planning improvements to bus services running from Bolton to Manchester through our area.

There will be a package of highway improvements where bus, cycling and walking journeys will become more reliable and safer.

It is intended that there will also be improvements to services 8, 12, 22, 36, 37, 38, 50 and 68.

In Sinton and Pendlebury areas affected will be on Bolton Road and on Chorley Road around the Precinct.

Pendlebury councillor John Ferguson, himself a regular user of the number 8 service, said that he's keen to hear the views of local residents so that they can be input to the consultation process.

Trixie Mirrors

Trixie mirrors are a traffic safety aid to protect cyclists. They allow cyclists to be seen by HGV drivers.

New mirrors have been added to the traffic lights at the junction of Partington Lane, Chorley Road and Station Road. This is a major improvement for the safety

St Peter's Lych Gate

St Peter's Lych Gate is the first world war memorial in front of St Peter's parish church in Swinton.

The memorial holds the names of the fallen from Swinton during WW1 carved into the arch and walls. The names are now starting to fade and need recarving.

Swinton Labour Councillors Jim Dawson, Bill Hinds and Derek Antrobus are trying to find funding for this project.

A full list of the names from the memorial can be found at: www.salfordwarmemorials.co.uk/st-peters-lychgate-swinton.html

Noah Robinson Park

This park is a memorial to the founding father of Swinton. Built in 1901 the park is now in need of a facelift. Labour Councillors Jim Dawson, Bill Hinds and Derek Antrobus are trying to organise the refurbishment of the park in honour of Noah Robinson and to the benefit of local people.

Swinton Gateway Centre

Jim Dawson, Bill Hinds and Derek Antrobus are all looking forward to the opening of the new Gateway centre in April.

The centre will provide much needed health services for Swinton residents along with a library and community rooms.

Life is getting harder for so many people in this country. Under this Government people have increasingly seen working life become more stressful, precarious and poorly paid.

The younger generation have seen their employment prospects hit hard, and have been shut out of the housing market.

Poverty and inequality are increasing. In many communities there is a sense of being abandoned. People feel that something has been taken from their lives that they will never get back.

Childcare & the early years

Too many families are faced with difficult choices about how they balance work and family life. Some parents who want to work are being prevented from doing so because the rising cost of childcare makes it unaffordable, while others increasingly struggle to find good before- and after-school placements.

Under the current Government, the problem is getting worse. Too many parents are struggling to cope as the cost of childcare soars and availability falls. And David Cameron has broken his promise to protect Sure Start, with 628 fewer Children's Centres since 2010.

Labour will...

- Extend free childcare from 15 to 25 hours for working parents with three and four-year-olds, paid for with an increase in the bank levy.
- Introduce a legal guarantee that parents of primary-aged children can access childcare from 8am to 6pm through their local school.
- Reinvigorate Sure Start, reforming the way local services work together to shift from sticking-plaster services to radical early help.

Tackling Crime and Safeguarding Justice

The first duty of any Government is to keep people safe, yet David Cameron has shown complacency on crime and justice. Frontline policing has been cut, and the shift to neighbourhood policing achieved under the last Labour government has been put at risk.

Offenders are escaping justice: the number of rape, domestic violence and child abuse cases reported to the police is going up, but the number of cases being put forward for prosecution is falling as the service is hollowed out. Meanwhile the Government is presiding over chaos, with suicides and riots up, criminals absconding regularly and the reckless selloff of the probation service putting public safety at risk.

Labour will...:

- Scrap Police and Crime Commissioners in order to protect frontline police numbers.
- Raise policing standards with a new inspection and standards body.
- Establish a Commissioner to set minimum standards in tackling domestic and sexual violence.
- Reform prisons, professionalising the workforce, stamping out corruption and holding prisons to account on re-offending.
- Enact Britain's first Victims' Law to put victims at the heart of justice system.

David Cameron's hated Bedroom Tax is hitting more than 400,000 disabled people. Labour will scrap it.

The Bedroom Tax is cruel, it's unfair, and it doesn't work. The Tories claim it's supposed to encourage people to move house, but the vast majority of those affected have nowhere smaller to move to. The average family paying the tax is losing £720 a year – money they can ill afford. And yet there is a real risk that the Bedroom Tax will end up costing the taxpayer more than it saves.

Labour will...

- Abolish the Bedroom Tax. Our policy is fully funded, so that it won't lead to any additional borrowing.

A Fair Plan To Deal With The Deficit

Britain has experienced the slowest economic recovery in over a hundred years. This has not only led to a cost-of-living crisis, it has meant the Tory-led Government has failed on get the deficit down too. Because when people's earnings are squeezed so is the tax we bring in.

In 2010 David Cameron and George Osborne pledged to balance the books by 2015. But they are on course to break this promise, instead still borrowing over £90 billion this year and with a large deficit set to remain next year.

As well as failing on the deficit the Tories have failed to address it fairly, raising VAT for ordinary working families while giving those earning over £150,000 a £3 billion tax cut.

Labour will...

- Balance the books and deliver a surplus on the current budget and falling national debt as soon as possible in the next Parliament.
- Reverse the 50p tax cut so that those at the top will pay a little more and introduce a lower 10p starting rate of tax, paid for by scrapping the unfair Marriage Tax Allowance.
- Stop paying the winter fuel allowance to the richest five per cent of pensioners.
- Cut ministerial pay until we have balanced the books.
- Ensure every commitment in our manifesto is fully funded, with no additional borrowing.

Immigration

Britain has benefited over many centuries from immigration. But it is because immigration is so important that it needs to be controlled and its impact properly managed.

The Tories have let people down on immigration. David Cameron promised to get net migration down to the tens of thousands, but rather than falling it has actually increased. Illegal immigration is also a growing problem. Fewer people are being stopped at the border, more people are absconding and fewer foreign criminals are being deported; yet the government still has no way of properly tracking who is coming into the country and who is leaving.

Labour will...:

- Control immigration, with 1,000 new border staff and people counted in and out.
- Tackle illegal immigration, reinstating fingerprint checks at Calais and closing down student visitor visa loopholes.
- Ban recruitment agencies that only hire from overseas.
- Ensure that EU migrants have to earn their entitlement to benefits.
- Require public sector workers in public facing roles to speak English.
